BOSTON, MA, USA, June 2, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- DiLuigi Foods, a Boston-based, family-owned foodservice company, is now offering an expansive selection of their protein products to the wholesale market. In order to meet the increasing demands of the growing wholesale industry, this selection includes various cuts of beef, sausage, and chicken.

With the company's focus on delivering premium quality food products while meeting marketing demands, DiLuigi Foods took advantage of increasing wholesale buyer requests. They decided to increase their production to provide protein products for this level of the market. In doing so, DiLuigi Foods reaped expansion opportunities to further scale their quality products via wholesale paths of sale.

With demands on the rise for high quality, safe, and nutritious protein product, wholesale suppliers understand that establishing partnerships with companies that provide trustworthy product, like DiLuigi Foods, will benefit their sales and increase trust with their own customer base.

Regarding the quality and safety of products, DiLuigi Foods officially stated, "While it may be more lucrative to sell an inferior product, we will never provide you with something we wouldn't take home to our own families. Our foods are exactly what we present as: delicious, nutritious, high quality, and safe. When all is said and done, we need to feel good about what we do, and you need to feel good when you're done with dinner."

Notwithstanding DiLuigi Foods' growth on the wholesale level, their priority is still to provide both their customers and wholesale partners with the most premier level of quality and safety across all of their protein products. As a proud provider of a wide selection of quality protein products, DiLuigi Foods remains confident in their high standards for research and development testing and - despite expansion - these standards remain in effect to ensure consistent quality of taste, color, packaging, and preservation.

DiLuigi Foods ensures that this growth on the wholesale level converts to meeting the increasing demands of wholesale partners and their customers, while also developing reliable relationships within the industry.
