Everything was manual in those days. We had so much paper and the office was full of ring binders where we kept track of the bookings. We have come a very long way since then”

Alexandra Baradi

When the company first started in 1992, there were no mobile phones, no email, the internet had only just started but was not widely available and the main form of written communication was by fax or telex. “Everything was manual in those days. We had so much paper and the office was full of ring binders where we kept track of the bookings. We have come a very long way since then” says owner and founder – Alexandra Baradi.

The company started in Alexandra Baradi's spare bedroom with just one employee. Today the company has 40 people working with them in 5 different offices. Of course, everything is totally automated and online now. More than two decades of expertise has ensured the company transformed from a new venture with big ideas to one of the leading luxury travel companies in the world. The key to the success of the company was to keep moving with the times, evolving and constantly re-inventing the product.

Saying all of that, at the top luxury end of the market which they represent, Exceptional Villas are seeing a fast trend in moving away from online bookings. Their clients want to engage with them. Talk about the pro and cons of each property and destination before making a final decision. They encourage all their clients to talk to them so that they can find out as much about what they are looking for and in turn ensure their clients have the perfect vacation.

The companies' idea has always been a simple one; to provide amazing destinations with quality service. The fact that they deliver the highest possible quality vacations has sustained them. Trust is also the key to their success and Exceptional Villas is well recognised as one of the most trusted villa companies in the world on Google, Trust Pilot and Trip Advisor.

The travel professionals at Exceptional Villas are all extremely passionate about travel and love to help their clients in every way they possibly can.

Exceptional Villas are looking forward to continuing to deliver the highest possible quality vacations to their clients for many years to come. They are very thankful to both their customers and their employees for making this anniversary possible.
