Global Insurance Brokerage Market

Description

Insurance brokers play a vital role in the Insurance industry; they act as an intermediary between the policyholders and the insurers. They provide professional and technical advice to their clients about insurance products from a range of Insurance carriers according to their clients' needs. The major insurance products sold by the insurance brokers include property and casualty, health, and medical insurance. The revenue of insurance brokerage firms are dependent on the demand for insurance and the popularity of using brokers as channel for distributing and purchasing insurance.
