3ptechies reacts to Wannacry Ransomware attacks by giving away Internet Security Licenses

3rd Planet Techies responds positively to recent Wannacry Ransomware attacks by giving away Internet Security Licenses to her blog readers.

BONNY ISLAND, RIVERS, NG, June 7, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Wannacry ransomware global chaos is one that won't be forgotten in a hurry. Thousands of computers the world over was infected with Wannacrypt virus that rendered user's documents, files and backups unusable.

3rd Planet Techies spokesperson opined that their blog readers and social media fans were intimated with best "safe" practices such as regular windows update, security software update and email scrutiny the moment the attack started gathering momentum.

To further create security consciousness and apt response to privacy concerns, 3rd Planet Techies team launched a free giveaway of Kaspersky internet security app from Kaspersky Lab.

The internet security giveaway exercise is scheduled to run for three (3) weeks and everyone is allowed to participate. A valid Kaspersky internet security license code would be given to 20 persons who participates and come atop the giveaway exercise.

Information has it that the giveaway exercise was solely sponsored by one of their senior editor who promised to launch other programs and means to intimate internet users of the importance of security consciousnesses in these days of increased cyber attacks and ransomware invasion.

An inquiry into why Kaspersky internet security program was chosen among several other options for securing computer and mobile devices revealed that it is the preferred security software within its editorial circle.

They also opined that Kaspersky internet security software from Kaspersky Lab is extremely effective for fighting malware, internet virus, email/web virus, ransomware, adware, phishing tools, Rootkit malware and malicious executable(s).

3rd Planet Techies is not known for running so many giveaways too often, but that of internet security program was necessitated by the wide-spread of wannacrypt ransomware and other malicious programs on the internet.

We hopes they employ other viral methods to lecture the internet populace on how to stay protected from malicious tools, malicious schemes, infected apps and harmful codes. The link to take part in the internet security giveaway is found at 3rd planet techies homepage.

About 3rd Planet Techies

3rd Planet Techies is a technology firm experienced in business tech, digital marketing, IT support and mobile computing.

Their team is made up of web programmers, technical writers and digital marketing experts. Their tech blog covers- electronic gadgets review, marketing tips, electronics, forums, and access to popular website modules.

Contacts
3rd Planet Techies
FaceBook: fb.com/obasimvilla
Twitter: @3ptechies
Website: www.3ptechies.com

Kyle Stevens
3rd Planet Techies
(408) 800-6196
email us here