

Internships for Les Roches Chicago Students at World-Renowned Hotels

Students of Les Roches Chicago are offered a great chance to complete an internship as part of their bachelor degree course.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, USA, June 27, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Graduates with previous work experience have always been in higher demand among employers as they already possess some practical skills, know how to interact with people, solve problems and can work more effectively under pressure.

Les Roches Chicago offers students a chance to learn from the industry's leading professionals and complete two internships that are designed to help them get insight into hotel management and put their theoretical knowledge into practice. By the time the graduates start working, they will already have gone through the main hardships of the job and will know how a professional manager is supposed to act in difficult and stressful situations.

Students will take two internships throughout their studies at Les Roches Chicago. The first one will cover front and back of house operations while the second one will be dedicated to practicing management skills. The internships last for 6 months and, during this time, the future graduates will be able to fully immerse into the hotel management industry, get professionally prepared for a manager's position and gain understanding of their future job.

In addition to getting a lot of practice in hotel management, the students will be able to improve their skills of intercultural communication. Being a good communicator is no less important than being a good manager. Les Roches Chicago interns will interact with people from various backgrounds and, as a result, learn to meet their expectations. Plus, the internships are a valuable opportunity to establish new business contacts that in the future may be useful while applying for a job.

One more advantage of such internships is that they can be completed outside the USA – the school collaborates with well-known hotel chains like Hilton, Four Seasons, Hyatt, Marriott that have branches worldwide.
