

Volatility Investing: Invest In Vol delivers the market's first fully electronic volatility trading accounts

Invest In Vol announced today the launch of its integrated online account management system, offering investors direct access to leading volatility strategies

STAMFORD, CONNECTICUT, UNITED STATES, July 12, 2017

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Invest In Vol LLC

announced today the launch of its integrated online account management system, allowing retail investors and institutions direct access to four leading volatility strategies. Investors can now open and close accounts, manage the size of their investment, monitor trading activity, and run customized reports all online.

"By simplifying our account management process, Invest In Vol has made volatility investing accessible to a broader group of investors, and delivered volatility strategies that were previously dominated by more exclusive platforms like hedge funds" said Dr Stuart Barton, founder of Invest In Vol - The Volatility RIA.

"Volatility Investing has become increasingly popular since the launch of VIX based Exchange Traded Products in 2009, and Invest In Vol has become central in making these products more investable through education and active management" said Justin Young, Portfolio Manager. "We see our move towards online management as a logical next step in improving this investability"
