Lyophilization USA interviews Drug Product Development Specialist from GSK Vaccines

ISELIN, NEW JERSEY, UNITED STATES, July 24, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SMi Group's next annual Lyophilization USA show is thrilled to welcome Dr. Kelly Forney Stevens, Drug Product Development from GSK Vaccines onto speaker panel for 2017.

I enjoyed the conference and would love to come again...better opportunity for networking”

Baxton

Kelly currently works in the Drug Product Development group and is responsible for the development of both the formulation and processing of vaccine drug products. Her research expertise is in lyophilization and solid-state formulations.

A key topic focus in Kelly's presentation is understanding how and when phase separation occurs. Lyophilization of pharmaceutical proteins is often the only processing method that provides requisite long-term product stability. Freezing and drying, however, can cause acute damage to proteins. While great efforts are placed on developing a formulation and suitable lyophilization cycle, incompatibilities among components through freezing and drying have been almost completely ignored.

Hear more from Kelly at Lyophilization USA when she presents: 'Assessing Phase Separation in Lyophilized Protein Formulations.' For full presentation details, view the agenda here: www.lyophilization-usa.com/pr3

For those looking to attend there is currently a $100 early-bird saving.
