Market Research Future

Aircraft tires are generally used in the performance of the aircraft. They are produced with different kind of materials such as steel, nylon cord, artificial and natural rubber and others. The strength of the tire is provided by casing plies. These are layer of fabric cord which are coated with hi-modulus rubber on both the side. There are different aircraft tire manufacturers who provides tire to civil and military segments so as to serve air force and naval force. The major factors which are responsible for the growth of aircraft tires market are increasing demand of aircraft, increase safety, frequent replacement of tires, demand for advance and new airlines and rise in traffic due to increasing passenger. Due to network expansion and fuel efficient aircraft, there is an increasing demand for aircraft.

Asia-Pacific region is expected to witness the highest growth during the forecasted period due to increasing demand of commercial airlines in these region and increasing government spending for infrastructure development, liberalization and GDP growth. The rising air traffic in Asia-Pacific results in the growth of these region. Various critical factors which has resulted in the growth of these region are adopting wide-bodied aircrafts, rising passenger traffic, growing demand for aircraft that are fuel efficient.
