Regional Analysis

In United States, the partial denture market is projected to be the fastest growing sector over the next 2 or 3 decades because of aging baby boomer patient base, growing life expectancy of the adult population and slow economic recovery which is creating need in the denture market and hence the demand of partial denture is increasing.

The partial denture market growth constraints are:

- Poor dental insurance coverage for dental implant
- Low reimbursement
- Fewer experienced denture technicians
- Reduced curriculum in dental schools for partial denture
