In the early 1980s, US car and truck manufacturers were required to stop installing asbestos lined brake pads or brake linings as it was well known as a hazard to the health of workers. The unfortunate reality is that mechanics or brake technicians were still being exposed to asbestos on auto/truck brakes on a very regular basis until the mid-1990s as the engineering of asbestos components on new vehicles stopped, but the maintenance and repair of them did not.

Auto/truck mechanics or brake technicians in Arizona who have recently been diagnosed with mesothelioma are urged to call the Arizona Mesothelioma Victims Center anytime at 800-714-0303 for a very honest conversation about mesothelioma compensation as well as specific attorneys they should be talking to. <http://Arizona.MesotheliomaVictimsCenter.Com>

The Arizona Mesothelioma Victims Center says, "If we had two vital tips for an auto/truck mechanic or auto/truck brake technician in Arizona who has been recently been diagnosed with mesothelioma it would be: "List the specific brake or auto parts that contained asbestos that you worked with on a regular basis. This is incredibly vital information for extremely skilled mesothelioma attorneys because it is this specific information that becomes the basis for the mesothelioma compensation claim. Write down a list of co-workers who witnessed your exposure to asbestos. Again, this is vital information when it comes to a mesothelioma compensation claim as we would like to explain anytime at 800-714-0303." <http://Arizona.MesotheliomaVictimsCenter.Com>
