The Patagonia Xpress on her Daily Voyage from Bali to the Gili Islands

The Patagonia Xpress sets sail every day from Benoa Harbour on Bali, departing at 8.30am for a journey along the Balinese coast to Padangbai. From here the boat sets out across the Lombok Straights. The Patagonia Xpress will have landed passengers bound for Gili Trawangan and be heading to Gili Air by 12 noon. If you've seen pictures or heard stories of wobbly gang planks to disembark at Gili Trawangan, worry not because the Patagonia Xpress has easy access steps on the bow that make getting on or off at the beach easy. The schedule then includes leaving Gili Air by 12.30pm and the small port of Bangsal on Lombok by 1.00pm, before heading back to Bali. You'll be back in Padangbai by 3.00pm and Benoa by 4.30pm.

The three Gili Islands, lying just off the coast of Lombok are most often visited by travellers heading from Bali. Gili Trawangan was the first of the islands to become famous as part of the backpacker trail and still maintains this vibe and a strong party scene. It has however also matured as a destination in recent years, and now offers a range of accommodation options, including stylish villas. Gili Air remains quieter and also has a range of accommodation options to suit all budgets. You'll also find fantastic fresh sea food and beach bars serving up cocktails and juices. All of the Gili Islands are blessed with perfect white sand beaches and the warm waters of the Indian Ocean are perfect for snorkelling, scuba diving and a range of other water sports. One of the big charms of the islands is that they remain car free to this day – transport is by foot, bicycle or horse and cart. The perfect location to be included in part of your holiday itinerary from Bali, with the Patagonia Xpress, travel to the Gili Islands is now more convenient, quick and safe.
