Aquamelon, the 100% all-natural watermelon juice is proud to announce the grand opening of its new cold pressed production facility in Plant City, FL. Developed by students at the University of South Florida 3 years ago, the drink quickly became a favorite of Tampa locals. Recognizing the need for growth to expand distribution, Aquamelon founder Dez Williams and team Aquamelon have built and launched a high-tech production facility.

The idea for Aquamelon came to Williams as he was training and after high intensity workouts experienced the replenishing and re-energizing effects of eating watermelon. After researching the health benefits of watermelon and after seeking but failing to find an all-natural watermelon juice, he decided to create his own, and Aquamelon was born.

Aquamelon was developed at USF in the Student Incubator, which gave the students access to key players in the business community and gave them a credible platform to take Aquamelon straight to market. The watermelon juice has been a huge hit with consumers for its great taste, and unequalled health benefits, such as the natural electrolytes it has, which are more than leading energy drinks.
