Kaalia modeling agency representing short female models

BANGALORE, KARNATAKA, INDIA, September 18, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Kaalia.com Kaalia Modeling Agency has announced that it has been and is more interested in accepting female models of height 5 feet and above to join its modeling agency.

The average Indian women height is 5'3" whereas internationally it is around 5'6". The agency believes that as per Indian products, the buyers need to visualize products based on their average height not a person who is 5" taller than them displaying the product.

A lot of Indian companies have understood the demand of shorter models and average looking models in India and hence the growth of these models is steadily rising in India.

Kaalia Modeling Agency has always gone about to do things a little differently, making sure that the market demand is always there for its models. Kaalia Modeling agency does not believe in pushing models who are not suited for their job for a respective client but rather believes in finding the right candidate for the client.

Kaalia Modeling is representing models from various parts of the country like Mumbai, Pune, Hyderabad, Delhi, Kashmir, Chennai, Kochi and Kolkata.
