Financial advisors face an ever-changing set of challenges on how to plan for the future. This event will uncover multiple ways advisors can turn challenge into opportunity and transform their business to drive new revenue, monetize their current books, and position their practices for success both today and upon retirement.

The event will feature three keynote speakers: Ron Kruszewski – Chairman & CEO of Stifel, Paul Blease - Director of CEO Advisor Institute at OppenheimerFunds, and Josh Brown – author, CNBC contributor, and CEO of Ritholtz Wealth Management, as well as Tony Sirianni, CEO & Publisher of AdvisorHub. Other prestigious sponsors that will participate in panel discussions include firms such as Interactive Brokers.

"We've been wanting to hold an event for some time now," said Tony Sirianni. "However, we wanted to make sure the timing was right and that there was a need from our readership. We are excited about the caliber of speakers and sponsors that will be participating and look forward to regularly hosting events in the future."
