

Best-Selling Children Series Harry Moon and Dana-Farber Cancer Institute Join Forces For Pediatric Cancers

BOSTON, MA, USA, September 19, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the popular children's series, Harry Moon, announced they are teaming up to fight pediatric cancers by directing a portion of the book sales to Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Thousands of young Harry Moon readers from around the country will be helping to raise funds by purchasing these books.

The Dana-Farber Cancer Institute

"Every year, more than 10,000 children in the United States are diagnosed with cancer, news that no family wants to hear," says Lisa Diller, MD, Chief Medical Officer, Dana-Farber/ Boston Children's Hospital Cancer Center and director of the Perini Family Survivors Center and the David B. Perini, Jr. Quality of Life Clinic for Cancer Survivors at Dana-Farber. "Fortunately, advances in research and care have dramatically increased survival rates for children with cancer, and we are better addressing treatment side-effects to help patients live full, healthy lives."

Harry Moon is about young heroes who inspire us with their gentleness and kindness. We want to support the important work that Dana-Farber is doing to save children's lives.”

Mark Andrew Poe, Author of Halloween Nightmares

The series publisher, Rabbit, has launched the Harry Moon Book Club Catalog, which will be offered five times a year to parents, schools, and corporations around the United States. The color catalogs contain more than twenty specially-priced Harry Moon and Honey Moon titles. A portion of the proceeds will be directed to Dana Farber Cancer Institute for pediatric cancer care and research.

“When a child is diagnosed with cancer, it releases a hero. The story of Harry Moon is about young heroes who inspire us with their gentleness and kindness. We want to support the important work that Dana-Farber is doing to save children's lives and bring our readers and these young heroes together,” says series author, Mark Andrew Poe.

The Harry Moon series is distributed worldwide by Diamond Comic Distributors. For more information about the Harry Moon Book Club, including resources and information about cancer prevention and screening, visit www.harrymoon.com
