Description

Wiseguyreports.Com Adds “Critical infrastructure protection -Market Demand, Growth, Opportunities and Analysis Of Top Key Player Forecast To 2022” To Its Research Database

The Global Critical infrastructure protection market is projected to reach $145.67 billion by 2022 growing at a CAGR of 9.15% during the forecast period. Some of the key drivers for the market growth include globally existing trend of investment in the smart grids, boost in IT spending, development in the operation of automation solutions, integrated functioning of cloud and CIP, raise in cyber-attacks & cyber-crimes and well-organized policy system & implementations. However, scarcity of technical personnel, a deep understanding of industrial control system and the paucity of interoperability between products are some of the major factors inhibiting the growth of critical infrastructure protection market.

North America commanded the Critical infrastructure protection market with more than 30% market share in 2014 and this trend is expected to persist over the forecast period as well. The market is mainly driven by the United States, continues to grow due to its vulnerability to terrorism, cyber hacking, bio-terrorism, hijacking and other such threats. However, Asia-Pacific is expected to be the fastest growing market, due to rising insider attacks, increasing cyber threats along with growing investments made towards infrastructure security. Risk management service holds the larger part in CIP followed by the designing, integration and consultation segment. Among applications, energy and power segment occupies the maximum market share.

The key players in the global Critical infrastructure protection market are IBM, Cisco, McAfee, Inc., BAE Systems, Integraph Corporation, EMC Corporation, Kaspersky Lab, Honeywell International Inc., Lockheed Martin and General Dynamics.
