SUMMARY

WiseGuyReports published new report, title "H1 2017 Production and Capital Expenditure Outlook for Key Planned and Announced Upstream Projects in Southeast Asia"

Globally, a total of 28 key planned crude and natural gas projects are expected to start operations in Southeast Asia. They are expected to contribute around 146 mbd to global crude production and about 4.1 bcf/d to global gas production in 2025. Among countries, Vietnam, Malaysia, and Indonesia would account for most of the capex spending. About US$37.4 billion is expected to be spent between 2017 and 2025 to bring the planned projects online. Among companies, ExxonMobil would be the highest capex spending company followed by Petroliaam Nasional Berhad, and Vietnam Oil and Gas Group.
