Americans Need and Deserve Campaign Finance Reform
Facebook Page Launched to Prompt Discussion

Washington, D.C. - Political Consultant Rodney A. Smith has launched a Facebook page highlighting the influence money has in America's political process. Smith's book, 'Money, Power & Elections', clearly outlines the deficiencies of so called campaign finance reform and a simple solution for this monumental problem.

Smith's book, originally released in 2006 by LSU Press, has received praise from people across the political spectrum regardless of political party including:

Former Speaker Newt Gingrich: "Money, Power & Elections is the most carefully argued and fully documented study on campaign finance ever published."

Former Congressman Martin Frost: "I believe this is a well-researched book that will hopefully open a much-needed dialogue on this subject."

Fox News Senior Political Analyst Brit Hume: "This book documents the unintended consequences of campaign finance reform and argues powerfully that while disclosure have been a force for good, regulation has not."

Smith has established this Facebook page, <https://www.facebook.com/MoneyPowerElections>, as a way of prompting the discussion, providing access to his book and drawing attention to the issue prior to the 2018 elections. He is a recognized expert in the field of campaign finance reform and has participated in numerous lectures, panels, discussions and interviews across the country on the subject.

Rodney Smith is available for interviews, lectures and participation on panels on the subject of campaign finance reform. Smith's book is available through <http://lsupress.org/books/detail/money->
