

InCapta, Inc., to Create CryptoCurrency Educational TV Show in Association with Mancuso Martin Productions

With Bitcoin climbing to over $6000.00, will it continue it's steady climb?

CHEYENNE, WY, UNITED STATES, October 21, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- InCapta, Inc. (OTC PINK: INCT) has begun writing and developing a new internet TV show focusing on cryptocurrencies. The program will be produced by Mancuso Martin Productions and is dedicated to educating everyone from professionals to those who may have little or no knowledge of cryptocurrencies.

Due to computer breaches and hacking of credit bureaus, major entities are taking alternative currencies more seriously. Consumers and businesses are highly dependent upon the integrity of the financial system for safe, efficacious, and encrypted transactions. Cryptocurrencies could potentially reduce or stem the tide of counterfeiting of U.S. paper currencies.

According to Wikipedia, on August 18, 2008, the domain name bitcoin.org was registered. In November 2009, a link to a paper authored by Satoshi Nakamoto titled Bitcoin: A Peer-to-Peer Electronic Cash System was posted to a cryptography mailing list. Nakamoto implemented the Bitcoin software as open source code and released it in January 2009.

Bitcoin advanced to a price of more than $6,000 recently, while other currencies including, Ethereum, Doge coin and others, have enjoyed a spike in price. The program will focus on how cryptocurrencies began, where cryptocurrencies are today and what the future of these currencies could be.

Retailers and merchants that accept Bitcoin include; Overstock, Dish, Expedia, and Shopify. People and companies make purchases ranging from goods and services, which include hotel stays. The Airline industry is evaluating cryptocurrencies, as are other sectors of business.

Chairman and President Greg Martin said, "Our desire is to educate, inform and entertain, as the company moves this project forward. We develop programs from inception to completion and we believe that this will be a program that will answer many unanswered questions in the realm of cryptocurrencies."

While it's possible some countries could someday embrace Bitcoin and other types of cryptocurrencies, retailers recognize these coins as safe forms of payment for goods and services and it could be just a matter of time before world banks; brokerages and others could follow suit, although there is no guarantee. Who would have imagined a micro-currency that started at almost zero could now be trading at over $6,000.00?
