

TouchstoneEnergy opens new office in Houston USA

TouchstoneEnergy, the global business systems and IT consultancy dedicated to the Energy Sector has today announced the opening of their Houston office, USA.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA , October 25, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TouchstoneEnergy, the global business systems and IT consultancy dedicated to the Energy Sector has today announced the opening of their Houston office, USA.

Peter Davis, Business Unit Head of TouchstoneEnergy comments;

“Houston is considered to be the energy capital of the world, and therefore an important and strategic location for our expansion into North America. It is the centre for almost every sector of the global energy industry – from exploration and production to trading, marketing, services and technology.”

“TouchstoneEnergy is now open for business to engage with the 5000 + energy companies operating in the USA. We are now perfectly placed to deliver maximum benefit to our North American customers. Our consultative and solution-driven approach delivers effective results and leads to long-term client partnerships with a focus on continuous improvement.”

To complement the Houston office launch, TouchstoneEnergy has launched a US website (<https://www.touchstoneenergyusa.com>).

The new website has extensive US-centric product information that will help our customers and prospects understand the full extent of our solutions. We have provided technical information, videos and client case studies which give an overview of our capabilities across the Energy Sector. From Oil and Gas to Oilfield Services; Renewable Energies to Downstream Traders and Mining - we have a customer base that is growing rapidly whilst reaping the benefits of working with such an experienced team of industry professionals.
