China Amide Herbicides Market Research Report

Amide herbicides are the third largest herbicide category (after organophosphate herbicides and sulfonylurea herbicides) by market value globally, whose market value accounts for about 9% of the global herbicides total. The rate has been increasing in recent years. In 2014, the global amide herbicides market value reached USD2.3 billion, up by 5.3% compared with that in 2013.

China is one of the largest suppliers of amide herbicides in the world. Currently, China can produce over 10 kinds of amide herbicides, and more than 60 companies have registered amide herbicide technical in China. The total capacity of amide herbicides in China exceeds 250,000t/a at present, and the output was about 100,000 tonnes in 2014. About 45% of Chinas amide herbicides flow to the overseas market.

Amide herbicides can be widely used in many crops, especially for the pre-emergent control of weeds in broadleaf crop fields. Coupled with the advantages of low cost, long validity and low residue, the domestic demand for amide herbicides takes up around 20%-25% of the total herbicides in terms of consumption volume.
