About Food Service

Foodservice refers to the sale of food and beverages that is prepared out-of-home for immediate consumption either on the premises from where they are purchased or for takeaway and home delivery. The foodservice industry offers its services to cafeterias, hospitals, cafés, pubs, nightclubs, bars, and hotels. Foodservice outlets are one-stop shop for household consumers that deliver foods of consumers' choice right at their doorstep. The working population, being time-pressed to prepare food, demands foods that are ready-to-eat or take very little effort to dish out. This has led to the adoption of a variety of food products from foodservice providers. Furthermore, trends like self-service, family oriented dining, and cafeteria are on the rise.

Technavio's analysts forecast the food service market in APAC to grow at a CAGR of 4.98% during the period 2017-2021.
