

eLeaP Learning Management System Expands Internationally with 20 languages

As the workforce grows increasingly diverse and multi-lingual, organizations wrestle with how to train their staff using the best LMS with rich language tools.

LOUISVILLE, KY, UNITED STATES, October 31, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The field of learning management systems (LMS) is varied and diverse, but a few trends can categorize the market. For one, most LMSs are available only in English.

eLeaP is excited to announce that its platform will be expanding to reach learners around the world. LMS Services are now available in twenty different languages, including Arabic, Chinese (simplified), Danish, Dutch, English, French, German, Hausa, Indonesian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swahili, Swedish, and Vietnamese.

As every company grows, they need to continue to train their workforce. For global companies with employees all over the world working in different languages, that process can be a nightmare. But with their addition of new languages, eLeaP's services can streamline and standardize employee training on a global stage.

If you talk to a man in a language he understands, that goes to his head. If you talk to him in his own language, that goes to his heart.”

Nelson Mandela

A recent survey by Fortune found that the workforces in different companies consistently chose international businesses as the best places to work. Being employed at an international company means the ability to work in a foreign place, share ideas with peers from different cultures, and mix one's job with an expanded worldview.

But the process of going global poses all kinds of challenges. Employee education is a big one. With eLeaP's availability in 20 different languages, teaching a global workforce is easier than ever. Companies like GlobeOne can continue to push their global deployments because of the extensive language options available in the eLeaP Learning Management System.
