Palo Alto, CA – November 6, 2017 – A new study from the Radicati Group provides an in-depth analysis of the market for Secure Email Gateways solutions from 2017 to 2021.

Secure Email Gateways protect against email related threats by filtering out spam, viruses, and other malware. Secure Email Gateway solutions also protect against phishing and spoofing attacks, and typically include Data Loss Prevention (DLP) and email encryption capabilities.

The study provides an analysis of leading vendor solutions for Secure Email Gateways, including vendor installed base and revenue market share, four-year market forecasts, as well as revenue breakouts by region and business size.

The worldwide market for Secure Email Gateway solutions continues to show strong growth, as organizations of all sizes are investing heavily to protect against email-borne threats and malware penetration. The worldwide revenue for Secure Email Gateway solutions is expected to top $2.0 billion in 2017, and grow to over $3.2 billion by 2021.
