About Oilfield Services

Oilfield services companies offer a range of services and applications such as formation evaluation, well construction, casing and cementing services, completion and stimulation, production, and artificial lift activities. The size and scope of the oilfield services companies vary widely. Large companies may offer multiple oilfield services; however, smaller companies may specialize in a single service. Oilfield services companies are granted contracts by the E&P companies to perform operations at a single well or multiple wells or for different wells located in different reservoirs.

Technavio's analysts forecast the global oilfield services market to grow at a CAGR of 3.63% during the period 2017-2021.
