

AgentRisk Launches an Open Beta for the First A.I. Wealth Management Agent for High Net Worth Individuals

AgentRisk has just released as an Open Beta the first A.I. Wealth Management Agent for high net worth individuals.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA , UNITED STATES, November 3, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- AgentRisk has recognized the potential of engaging Artificial Intelligence in the active management of investment portfolios through dynamic risk adjustment and the use of option strategies. Richard, its Artificially Intelligent advisor, is designed to offer each client a tailored investment solution to help them reach their financial goals. Richard is constantly trained to identify changes in the clients' risk tolerance and approach to investments and to update their portfolios accordingly, through an easy, hassle-free user experience.

The company's CEO, Jon Vlachogiannis believes that A.I. will revolutionise the wealth management sector, by introducing to investors a new level of efficiency and easy access to high quality services. "A.I. is the missing link between human and robo-advisors. Imagine a future where you have immediate access to a superhuman, super fast, dedicated advisor 24/7, who is ready to react or even proact to market volatility as well as life changing events." Thanks to the power of automation and two pending patents on Machine Learning and A.I.,
