PROVIDENCE, RI --- New Service, LLC finalized the launch of NowRenting, a software solution product for all rental professionals seeking a way to convert quality leads and fill vacancies quickly. NowRenting offers an all-encompassing solution.

First, NowRenting offers full syndication to the established partnerships at over 10+ listing sites; including Apartments.com, Redfin, Trulia, and Zillow. Realtors no longer need to fill out multiple listing forms.

Included in the NowRenting package is Facebook Marketplace ad campaign support for every listing. The AD campaigns target custom audiences based on the listing's attributes.

NowRenting includes

NowRenting Premium and Elite packages include a White Glove Service that pre-screens leads with a customized questionnaire and the system scrubs inbound leads based on the defined match criteria. Only the best leads land in the agent's Leads Dashboard for review.

Follow NowRenting on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter @NowRentingcom to stay up to date on the new software solution.

About the Founder

Edward Giardina has worked in the technology sector for over 10 years with an education in Engineering and MBA; he successfully founded New Service, LLC serving NowRenting and Tenantly.

When Ed first became a landlord, he began to wonder how people managed their investment property as well as their full-time jobs while still having time for a life. One challenge he faced was getting the property rented, and New Service is happy to report they have addressed that with the release of NowRenting.

Before New Service, LLC Ed ran a successful technology consulting firm based in Providence, RI. Ed is bringing the NowRenting product to the market with a personally curated best in class team. He is the driving force behind this revolutionary software product offering.
