

AMY TAYLOR: BEAUTY AND BRAINS

SUPER MODEL AMY TAYLOR WILL CHANGE MANY PEOPLE'S MIND

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, November 19, 2017

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Supermodel Amy Taylor is a native Californian beauty who has spent most of her life working as a published model. But Miss Taylor is not a regular model. As a model, she has an impressive international career. Amy has been the cover of a number of magazines such as Maxim or Playboy (to mention a couple) but she also received her undergraduate degree in Berkeley, MBA in Los Angeles, and commercial pilot's licenses in Arizona.

Amy Taylor is of Italian and Hungarian ancestry; quite a mix, she has the sort of curves fantasies are made of (32D-25-35), reason why magazines pursue her to put her on their covers, but one of the things that makes her feel sexiest is taking her semi-automatic out for some marksmanship.

She has traveled to 45 countries so far, and is eager to see more of the world. Travel is her only addiction.

But if you want to know what she finds sexiest in a man, keep reading... Intelligence! And the biggest turn offs are ignorance and selfishness.

Amy also shared with us some beauty tips. She takes care of her beauty by trying not to fall asleep with her makeup on, trying to eat somewhat healthfully, and using top-shelf skin and hair products but most of her looks are just genetic luck. She doesn't focus too much on these looks in daily life. She has always known that they'd fade someday, and that the inside of a person is sexier than any hot shell could ever be.

When she's not found in front of the camera, she's enjoying the sunny skies flying, keeping fit at her gym in Los Angeles, or at the beach playing with her dog.
