The Iowa Mesothelioma Victims Center is especially focused on assisting an electrician, plumber, a construction worker or a Navy Veteran with mesothelioma because they have so much experience dealing with these types of people. As an example, commercial or residential construction worker in Iowa prior to 1980 would have been exposed to asbestos. Frequently construction, repair or renovation work involved installing or removing insulation, and or working in unventilated places where asbestos was everywhere. In many instances these types of workers would re-exposure their family with asbestos because the worker's clothing was covered with asbestos when they came home from work.

Individuals with mesothelioma in Iowa could have been exposed to asbestos while serving in the US Navy, or while working at a power plant, as a plumber, a boiler technician, an insulator, as an auto repairman, as an electrician, or in the construction industry. In most cases, the exposure to asbestos caused mesothelioma at one of these types of workplaces and the exposure took place in the 1950's, 1960's, 1970's, or 1980's. Mesothelioma typically takes three to five decades to develop.
