About healthcare IT outsourcing

Healthcare IT outsourcing is the process of contracting IT-related services in hospitals and clinical laboratories to a third-party service provider to reduce operational costs and improve efficiency. IT application and infrastructure outsourcing are the two functions that are frequently outsourced by hospitals and clinical laboratories. Economic condition, whether it is stable or unstable, has a direct impact on the healthcare sector in any country across the globe. Economic uncertainties and recession in countries affect healthcare spending as unemployment level increases and income decreases.

Technavio's analysts forecast the global healthcare IT outsourcing market to grow at a CAGR of 9.17% over the period 2014-2019.
