STATEN ISLAND, NEW YORK, USA, November 28, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Cornerstone Realty, Staten Island's premier real estate company, launched their new Virtual Reality Center for Real Estate. As the first Staten Island real estate company to offer virtual reality across all of its properties, Cornerstone has created the "Cornerstone VR Center," inside their Annadale office where buyers are able to experience the walk through of multiple properties without physically leaving the space.

"Technology continues to advance our industry and we want to be on the forefront of bringing this experience to our clients," stated Francis J. Rizzo, President of Cornerstone Realty, "We are the first company to bring this virtual experience to every one of our listings regardless of price point, making it a standard part of our offering package. Additionally, clients of ours can come to our in-house center and experience this incredible walk through from one location, saving them time to find the home they really love."

While virtual reality has started to be showcased in real estate, due to the costs associated with the technology, it generally was reserved for higher end properties. In creating the VR Center in their office, Cornerstone is positioned for that to change. "We feel that our investment in this technology will provide a better experience for our clients. Just putting a VR listing up isn't good enough, most buyers don't have the technology to get the full experience. We're changing that. We're providing a center and entire sleight of properties for buyers to view - across the board."
