

Roger Stone Responds to CNN Story on New York Radio Personality Randy Credico as WikiLeaks Contact.

"Nothing illegal or improper communicating with Julian Assange or WikiLeaks. I can see no illegalities within any of these matters"

NEW YORK, NY, USA, December 1, 2017

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Political operative and best-selling author Roger Stone has released the following statement in response to CNN's breaking story about New York City radio personality Randy Credico being his WikiLeaks contact:

Randy Credico merely confirmed what Assange had said publicly. He was correct. Wikileaks did have the goods on Hillary and they did release them.

Credico confirmed the accuracy of Julian Assange's interview of June 12, 2016 with the British ITV network, where Assange said he had "e-mails related to Hillary Clinton which are pending publication."

Mr. Credico never said he knew or had any information as to source or content of the material. Mr. Credico never said he confirmed this information with Mr. Assange himself. I knew Credico had his own sources within WikiLeaks.

I initially declined to identify Mr. Credico for the Committee fearing that exposure would be used to hurt his professional career and because our conversation was off the record and he is journalist. My worst fears were realized when his name surfaced in this manner and was fired at WBAI Radio, in spite of the fact that his show was the highest rated on the station.

There is nothing illegal or improper communicating with Julian Assange or WikiLeaks. I can see no illegalities within any of these matters.
