“The concept of franchising is not known to everyone. Franchising is perhaps one of the best ways to help you gain the financial freedom you deserve and is a better option if you are planning on starting your own business. I remembered when Randolph invited me to be one of the speakers in one of his first of a series of Franchise business seminars. I decided right away to participate sharing my passion and franchise experience as it gives me much fulfillment to help out business-minded individuals who dream of getting their own business. With the booming economy and the booming senior population there’s no better time to start but now. And in this seminar, we will show you the possibilities and the immense opportunities you may get when you decide to put up your own business through franchising.” says Devin Conner, CEO of W.C. Franchise Developers.
