

Andrew Guadagnino of GMG HVAC to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

BAYSHORE, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, December 11, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Imagine a hundred employees in a Manhattan office building on a sweltering summer day. Suddenly the air conditioner stops working. Soon, the heat becomes unbearable and all 100 of your employees are threatening to leave en masse, essentially shutting down your business until the air conditioner is fixed.

When your HVAC system breaks down or malfunctions, it's critical that you call a professional HVAC technician right away.

Andrew Guadagnino is the founder and owner of GMG HVAC of Bayshore on Long Island. Since 2013, GMG HVAC has specialized in both residential and commercial HVAC repair and maintenance services including HVAC installation, air conditioning and repair, air purification treatments. GMG's experienced technicians are equipped with the latest, cutting-edge HVAC technology and equipment, so you can rest assured your system is being taken care of properly.

"The key to success in this industry is responsiveness," says Guadagnino. "Sometimes you load your kids in the car to go the beach and you get a call and you've got to go to work. You can get away with not being the lowest price if your customer knows they can depend on you 100%."

And GMG's customers can. GMG offers 24/7 emergency heating and cooling services 365 days a year, with three crews servicing as many as 20 customers each day.

"We're small so we're able to give our clients more attention," says Guadagnino. "We're not rushing out of places. We're able to spend more time than other companies and fix things the first time."

GMG's jobs can be as small as a residential boiler or furnace and as large as 150-ton commercial AC unit. A big portion of their business is maintenance, especially preventive maintenance.

CUTV News Radio will feature Andrew Guadagnino in an interview with Jim Masters on December 13th and December 20th at 2pm EST.
