

Irish Travel Vlog Launches in 2017 to Showcase the Best of Northern and Southern Ireland - Travel & Tourists

ConnollyCove launches a video/travel vlog from around Ireland - with an aim to have covered every county's main sites by the end of 2018.

BELFAST, ANTRIM, UNITED KINGDOM, December 11, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Recently, ConnollyCove, a new travel blog which helps people discover world hidden secrets, was formally launched. The project aims to take you to the most fascinating destinations around both Northern and Southern Ireland.

ConnollyCove will take you on a trip around the best locations and experiences in Ireland, even in 360 Degrees in some locations. So whatever type of destination you're interested in visiting, you're covered! If you are into "glamping" or exploring George Best's early influences, Belfast to Dublin, Game of Thrones to Cliff's of Moher, you'll find videos and photos to reviews of different sites, experiences and Irish food. If history is your thing - many historical sites are captured - from Medieval Castles to landmarks from around the Island. We have even just covered the Christmas Market Belfast!

We love exploring the places around us-so it makes sense to share these with others who are looking for things to do on their travels around Ireland. Hopefully people will discover new things to do!”

Ciaran Connolly

There is long form articles that cover many topics including - our most famous St. Patrick, Apostle of Ireland, and all the significant cultural and religious celebration with the widely known customs which are actually a part of the Irish identity. From Croagh Patrick, The Rock of Cashel, St. Patrick Grave Stone, Sanctuary of St. Patrick, St. Patrick's Cathedral and many other sacred places that are related to St. Patrick around Ireland that visitors should never miss.

Anyone who has ever crossed Ireland or knows about its history would be familiar with its mythologies. Irish mythology and folklore are famed for its richness of detail, its abundance of memorable characters and its meaningful fables. From the most well-known tales of the Giants Causeway's creation to lesser-known gems, Ireland can lay claim to an abundance of folkloric wonders that are worthy of any travellers exploration. These stories that shaped the cultural practice in different civilisations and countries and of course had a big share in shaping Ireland's cultural identity.

The project is made up of a website - www.connollycove.com and a YouTube channel, which is supported by the usual social media accounts. It is lead with video content - from mini travel videos of towns and locations around Ireland to a "Best of" collection of videos - showcasing the best a city or areas has to offer for any visitor.

Some of the most popular locations visited in Northern Ireland include the usual - Titanic Centre, Giant's Causeway and the Game of Thrones locations such as the Dark Hedges and other sites used in the TV show. Lesser travelled sites include Armagh - the cathedral city, Omagh and its excellent Folk Park through to one of the best Halloween experiences in Europe - which takes place in Derry/Londonderry every year.

In Southern Ireland - we have covered from Donegal, to Connemara in Galway through to Dublin city itself. Some of the most famous sites on any visitors list to Ireland. So plenty left to explore in 2018 and beyond! The aim of the site is to showcase the best of Ireland and share the lesser known locations with potential tourist.

Occasionally we will step outside of Ireland. So while navigating the website, you'll get to move beyond the borders of Ireland, and get to dig deeper into the hidden treasures of Egypt, for example. "Egypt is a transcontinental country that is located in both Africa and Asia. It's famous for one of the longest histories and many significant civilisations. It is the cradle of the greatest ancient (pharaonic) Egyptian civilisation and a home to many others like the Roman, the Mamluke, the Fatimid, the Coptic, the Islamic and others. It has more than one-third of the world's monuments and rich of different cultures that are a part of its identity."

The project is initiated and supported by a passionate team at ProfileTree that mainly provide both content and more importantly the media production. ProfileTree is a digital marketing agency based in Belfast and that has been working with different clients all around the world since 2010. Through this period of time the agency has built many websites, created hundreds of videos. Its team has written thousands of blog posts and social media content.

"Our vision is to record our visits to our favourite places and share them. It's a personal project – a project of passion. We do believe there are many hidden treasures around us and strongly believe they can be promoted to an even wider audience – it would be nice to be able to do this." The main motive behind the team's dedication to the ConnollyCove project is their belief that everywhere is full of hidden magnificent spots which deserve to be shared. We record of visit to places around Ireland to help people take a look at them before they travel - a personal and professional project for ProfileTree.

ProfileTree is an unusual agency in the fact that it runs its own in house projects focused on travel and education. This allows it to perfect its services on its own projects and offer clients a truly professional experience no matter what service they select. Content Marketing, SEO, Video Production, Web Design and Development are all available through the Belfast based operation.

Hopefully you will find this travel project interesting enough to check out or share. If you have any feedback, thoughts or suggestions, we would be delighted to get them. The plan for 2018 is to cover more of the unusual locations around Northern Ireland and venture deeper south to cover locations we have not had the time to see in 2017. We are hopeful to have video content from every county in Ireland by the end of 2018. So do visit www.connollycove.com
