Colorants Market 2017

Colorants are specialty chemicals added in plastics and other substances to impart color. Colorants are used in various applications such as painting, printing, coloring materials like plastics, and foods. Colorants are classified as organic and inorganic. Organic colorants are made of carbon atoms and carbon-based molecules. Most organic colorants are soluble dyes. Pigments that are derived from mineral compounds are known as inorganic colorants.

Minerals that are used in inorganic colorants are oxides or sulfides of one or more than one metals.

The analysts forecast the global colorants market to grow at a CAGR of 5.23% during the period 2017-2021.
