Market outlook of Islamic banking and financing

Islamic banking and financial vendors are increasingly seeking diversification into foreign investments on account of strong growth prospects and higher investment returns. Technavio's market research analysts predict the global Islamic financing market to record a CAGR of close to 19% during the 2015 to 2019 period.

The market is expected to witness an increase in the demand for sharia-compliant assets in Asian markets, including Malaysia, and Indonesia. Islamic banks located in Iran and GCC are also expanding operations in countries like Singapore to deploy Islamic funds strategically to corporates in the different regions across the globe, through Islamic bank financing, and Sukuk issuances. Similarly, other countries offering strong political support with various tax incentives for institutional investors will attract significant investments through Islamic banking in the years to come.

Sub-Saharan Africa

Other regions

This market research report predicts the global Islamic financing in Asia to reach a market size of over USD 985 billion by 2019 with the growth of Islamic financing in countries like Bangladesh, Indonesia, Malaysia, and Pakistan.

The asset-backed nature of Islamic financing is ideal to build highway networks, new ports and other huge investment projects. An estimated USD 800 billion worth of infrastructure financing will be needed each year in Asia over the next decade. During the forecast period, countries such as Hong Kong, China, and Thailand will also witness a growing niche of Islamic finance.

Vendor analysis of the global Islamic financing market

Low market penetration of Islamic products in most of the emerging markets has created an attractive growth opportunity for the top market players. Market expansion strategies are crucial to the enhancement of Islamic products and services. To capitalize on the market opportunity, the leading players are expected to focus more on devising and developing effective marketing channels by affiliating with various distribution channels as per the forecast.
