

Get the best of Eric van Aro with his new album "From the beginning and more"

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, USA, December 15, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Eric van Aro has just released a new album "From the beginning and more". It can be seen as an anthology spanning the past 20 years of his recording career, or more commonly known as a 'greatest hits' or 'best of' compilation.

Eric's decorated career as a musician reaches back over 4 decades. Well versed in multi genres, he carved his way and settled his identity primarily as a jazz vocalist.

"From The Beginning and more", released by the ERAKI label, boasts 17 tracks of Eric's best material; some of which are previously unreleased songs, and also an additional two new releases, never heard before.

Here's a quick look at some of the stylistic versatile tracks:

A touching folk ballad "Until It's time For You To Go"- The first recording of Eric accompanying himself on the guitar.

The swinging "Rhythm In My Nursery Rhymes", with Caterina Valente on guitar and the late Silvio Francesco on clarinet.

A jazzy influenced, "Put the Weight on My Shoulder", with the soulful trumpet of Franco Ambrosetti.

A Latin jazz version of "the Christmas song" with the dynamic Iguazu acoustic trio, and rocking version of David Bowie's "This Is Not America".

Plus three, energy filled EDM remixes of Eric's dance music hits.

Eric recently commented about this album:

"I'm a lucky guy who gets to sing some really exquisite songs. Listening to them now proves me right and serving them was absolute pure joy. I must admit that to my ears today I do sound half as bad as I thought back then".

Throughout the years Eric van Aro has seen a great response by top music critics, including the likes of Don Heckmann who said: "The combination of high quality vocalizing, stylistic versatility and stellar musical setting clearly identify Eric van Aro as one of the current music world's most appealing male vocalists".

The album is available on iTunes, Tidal, Amazon, Spotify, and all other major online music distribution portals worldwide.
