SUMMARY

WiseGuyReports published new report, titled "Opportunities in Food Swaps"

"Opportunities in Food Swaps", outlines the key consumer trends and innovation opportunities aligning with the food swap concept.

Food swaps are being used by consumers to make small changes to their diet, as they seek to limit or avoid certain foods for a variety of reasons such as health, sustainability, and affordability. The concept is creating numerous innovation opportunities as consumers seek to replicate consumption experiences using different ingredients. The research explores food swap opportunities in five key food groups: protein, carbohydrates, dairy, fat, and sugar.
