Palo Alto, CA – March 5, 2018 – A new report from the Radicati Group provides data and key statistics on business and consumer adoption of Email and Mobile Email. The study includes data on the number of business and consumer users and accounts broken out by region for

North America, Europe, Asia/Pacific and Rest of World (RoW). It also provides user demographics, four-year forecasts for on-premises and cloud email accounts, breakouts by business size, vertical industry, email traffic volumes, average number of daily emails sent and received per user, email storage data, and data on the average number of spam emails and malware attacks.

According to the report, the number of worldwide email users, including both business and consumer users, will grow from over 3.8 billion in 2018 to over 4.2 billion by 2022. Email remains the most pervasive form of communication, with both business and consumer users. However, protecting against spam and malware attacks remains a key concern for organizations of all sizes.
