

Leading Hosted Telecommunications Firm DigitalPhone.io Kicks off 2018 by Expanding Senior Sales and Support Teams

DigitalPhone.io, has accelerated its strategic growth plans by significantly expanding its senior sales and support teams

GREENSBORO, NC, US, January 5, 2018
/EINPresswire.com/ -- DigitalPhone.io, a leading hosted telecommunications that serves businesses, government organizations and educational institutions across the country, has accelerated its strategic growth plans by significantly expanding its senior sales and support teams.

Our wonderful new team members are not just smart and skilled, but they have the essential intangible qualities that enable them to lean forward and constantly deliver exceptional support.”

Nicky Smith

These talented professionals join a leadership team helmed by Founder and CEO Nicky Smith, who launched DigitalPhone.io (formerly Carolina Digital) in 2000, and has since developed the company into a full-service enterprise-grade solutions provider with an expanding nationwide footprint.

“Hiring for technical acumen is not difficult, because there are many people who have strong telecommunications knowledge,” commented Smith. “But what we focus on when we hire are personality, attitude and character. These are aspects and traits that can’t be switched on and off. They’re part of who someone is, and define them as a person and a professional.”

Continued Smith: “Our wonderful new team members are not just smart and skilled, but they have the essential intangible qualities that enable them to lean forward and constantly deliver exceptional support — whether they are helping a customer or a colleague. They know what it means to do business the DigitalPhone.io way, and we are very excited about how their contributions will support our growth plans in 2018 and beyond.”
