Founded in 2014 as an add-on to existing publications serving the Long Island region, Long Island Used Cars provides consumers thousands of used vehicles for sale from dealerships from Montauk to Manhattan.

Today, the company has announced adding Facebook to an already extensive vehicle syndication network it calls “Turbo Listings”, which sends dealer inventory to various shopping services such as Craigslist, Backpage, AutoList, AOL’s AutoBlog, now Facebook and others, in addition to displaying vehicles on its own website and in print.

“This new Facebook addition puts Long Island Used Cars in high-gear by delivering thousands more vehicle detail page views and clicks to our participating dealer inventory” said Long Island Media Inc., CEO John Colascione. “Facebook has already made a big impact on our lead generating activity and traffic at a fraction of the cost of other venues. We will continue to spend more with Facebook and refine its targeting to particular dealership inventory. At this time it is included in our overall services, as is most of the options and features of our network, but there may be additional charges for targeting in the future” Colascione added.
