

New Community-Driven Marketplace Aims to Revolutionize How Individuals Make a Living

EezyBee provides a solution for anyone in financial straits while it unites the community to strengthen social bonds.

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, USA, January 25, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- San Jose, California (January 2018) - Economic anxiety has slowly crept over a majority of Americans who fight their way daily to make ends meet. Over 78% of these individuals are reported to be living from paycheck to paycheck, dealing with creeping uncertainties when it comes to their financial well-being. The current system creates tension due to the fact that the cost of living is moving increasingly out of reach for low-mid wage workers. Simply put, Americans are struggling to find solutions for modern day financial demands in an overbearing economic climate.

As a result, it becomes increasingly difficult for individuals to consider retirement when the bills need to be paid. Without addressing this impending economic downturn, the issue will only compound itself for future generations.

Take It Easy With EezyBee

These recent developments suggest a critical need for a new approach toward achieving financial freedom, in order to allow workers to lead happier and healthier lives. At least, that is what EezyBee is designed to do. The new online platform aims to connect local service providers and seekers in order to create new opportunities for generating sustainable income, while strengthening community bonds.

From the get-go, EezyBee's focus is to make the service network to be community-driven... from the community to the community”

Izza Jahari

Think of EezyBee as an online service marketplace, a tool to be used to offer or request services from locals. Those who maintain a special skill, hobby, or talent can sign up on the platform as a service provider and receive payment for doing something they enjoy. Those who require services for their daily needs can sign up as a service seeker.

By connecting these two parties on a single platform, EezyBee strives to bring the community together to inject value into the process while creating meaningful relationships.

“From the get-go, EezyBee's focus is to make the service network to be community-driven... from the community to the community” said Izza Jahari, the founder of EezyBee. “There are countless possibilities and opportunities, and the best part is that these opportunities are open and accessible to everyone”.

The platform promotes an all-inclusive approach, allowing individuals to access services that are suitable for their needs and budget in such a way that can't be done anywhere else. Whether users want to find and hire services providers, schedule and manage services, or send payment for completed services, EezyBee allows them to do so on a seamless platform that encourages a worthwhile connection with the community.

“We have developed EezyBee to be a community-driven marketplace and tool that responds to various challenges, which can help build stronger communities, create sustainable and tangible values, establish deeper social connections, productive engagement, and above all else, significantly improve financial well-being for the community itself” said Izza Jahari.

ABOUT EEZYBEE

EezyBee is a community driven online service marketplace, a tool used to connect local service providers with local service seekers. The platform was created to present untapped opportunities for service providers to offer their hobbies, skills, or special talents as services and receive payment. The platform was also created to provide service seekers with seamless, trustworthy, affordable, accessible, and reliable access to services in their area. The goal is to allow our users to create more time for the more important things in life. We aim to support our target market, or anyone who is seeking to improve their financial situation. With this in mind, we also champion the notion of community-based health and encourage our users to get to know those around them for stronger social bonds and healthier lifestyles.

We extend a welcoming offer to our users to start their own business cost-free, risk-free, and on a low-commitment basis.

The live platform allows users to post their services, hire service providers, schedule and manage ongoing services, send/receive payment for all completed services, and incorporates many other exclusive features. We've created a mobile version to allow our users to manage their services on the go for a more streamlined experience as well. We encourage anyone who seeks a better financial future or anyone who requires service to join our platform and receive the benefits EezyBee has to offer.
