"We are excited about having a presence in these countries...the expansion to this region means an extension of the services we offer and provide in the US," said Founder and President, Peter Austin Onruang.

"From sales to technical services, law enforcement and other organizations can expect the same quality of support offered from our headquarters in Pasadena, California."

WOLFCOM® Australia specializes in providing body worn camera solutions to meet the requirements of agencies of different sizes and to provide them not only with the best products and solutions but also one that is cost-effective.

"Seeing body worn camera demand increase dramatically in Australia and New Zealand over the past five years, we opened an office in Australia to help satisfy this demand with Wolfcom's complete solutions. Having a presence in Australia means we can deliver fast and efficient services and support to our customers," said Rick Scarra, WOLFCOM® Australia's Managing Director.

"I look forward to introducing new and upcoming technologies to the market here. It's going to be an exciting year," he added.

WOLFCOM® has been at the forefront of introducing industry-first features and cutting-edge technologies for law enforcement. WOLFCOM® body worn cameras, accessories and evidence management solutions are being used by law enforcement agencies in 26 countries.
