

Drive Data Recovery Helps Houston Area Churches after Hurricane Harvey Flooding

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, February 2, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Drive Data Recovery, a company of data recovery experts with 61 locations across the country, has come to the rescue for several small churches in the Houston Area after hurricane Harvey wreaked damage throughout the area with heavy flooding.

Drive Data Recovery specializes in recovering data from RAID arrays, laptops and desktop computers, hard disk drives (HDD), solid-state drives (SSD), network area storage devices (NAS and SAN), removable storage media (SD cards, USB devices), mobile phones, and tablets for all leading manufacturers. Offering expedited data recovery service for personal, small business, enterprise and government clients, the company has the highest recovery rates in the industry, along with the fastest turnaround times.

Our engineers worked tirelessly to recover the data that the flood had seemingly destroyed.”

When flooding ruined the RAID arrays (storage devices) that contained all of the churches’ digital information, the local Drive Data Recovery team went into action. The churches had lost their mailing list information, photographs, videos, and other vital documents that could never be replaced.

“Our engineers worked tirelessly to recover the data that the flood had seemingly destroyed,” says company spokesperson Edward Johanssen.

But this isn’t the only time that Drive Data Recovery has stepped up within local communities.

“We strive to be a member of each community we have a location in and be helpful where we can be!” explains Johanssen. “It’s a part of who we are. We recover the unrecoverable, and we do it with compassion. In times of need or natural disaster, we provide discounted rates - only to cover the costs of our engineers’ time.

“We understand that sometimes, customers look beyond the monetary value and are trying to relive or retrieve lost memories. We make it our goal to work with all of our customers so that they may be reconnected with everything they hold so dear.”
