Michelle Nipper, Chief Operating Officer of Coal Hill Capital Inc. comments: "We acquired the RunningBeltMax business in February of 2017, and in honor of our one year anniversary we wanted to give something back to our loyal customers. Around this time of year especially in the northern states, the winter doldrums are hard to beat and we wanted to both celebrate our anniversary and lift the spirits of fitness enthusiasts by offering a price break. Be acquiring their gear now we'd like to help them think Spring for when they can get back outdoors and run, walk, hike, garden, or do whatever it is they do best. Our normal on-sale price is $19.99 but until February 28th customers can purchase a RunningBeltMax for $13.99" Ms. Nipper continues: "We had a great year in our first year operating the business, including adding two new trim colors over the winter: pink and yellow to go with our traditional blue trim offering. We spent the autumn of last year working on design and production so that we could have the new colors ready for the 2018 outdoors season."
