

Look Younger– Scientifically Proven Beauty Secrets

Antiaging - Introductory Offer

ADELAIDE, SA, AUSTRALIA, February 12, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Adelaide, February 12 – Belle’Botanique Pty Ltd a South Australian company has discovered a number of bioactive compounds, and developed skincare products to address skin aging at the cellular level.

Premature skin ageing is a major sign of modern day life-style due to the industrialization, environmental factors and stress. ‘Collagene’ range of skincare products fulfil growing demand for antiaging skincare products containing scientifically proven natural ingredients.

“Three important structural components of the skin, collagen, elastin and glycosaminoglycans play a major role in maintaining a youthful and healthy skin. We have developed advanced products, using natural active ingredients to promote synthesis of structural components of the skin”, said Manoj Jain Director of R & D at Belle’Botanique Pty Ltd.

We have found that a wide variety of plant extracts and botanical lipids can facilitate the skin to:

- promote collagen synthesis,
- repair wrinkles,
- improve hydration,
- improve elasticity, and
- a younger looking face.

It is necessary to reduce the degradation of the skin primary structural components, such as collagen, elastin, hyaluronic acid; and promote the natural synthesis of these substances to prevent the formation of wrinkles.

'Collagene' range of products contain:

- Asiaticoside from Gotu Kola to boost collagen synthesis.
- Arginine PCA to fight off glycation and combat collagen degradation.
- Cherry blossoms extract acts as an antioxidant, improves elasticity and radiance.
- Rhodiola Rosea extract, and Green Tea extract helps to combat dark spots and provide antioxidant activity.
- Hyaluronic acid, and extracts of Wild Yam and Marshmallow provide deep hydration.
- Tamanu oil, Phytosterols and Avocado oil act as anti-inflammatories to boost collagen synthesis.
