“Growth and forward thinking is what fuels the passion of the Intelligent Health Pavilion team,” says Harry P. Pappas. “When I started the IHA in 2005, this was exactly what I envisioned. The doctors, inventors and thought leaders that are a part of the IHPavilion, are defining the direction for healthcare across the globe. It's through this collaboration, learning and bringing together of expertise that is setting the standard of the healthcare tradeshow.”

This years IHPavilion will be offering 6 mini-conferences within its already packed speaker list. Learn from industry experts on topics such as: AI, IoHT, i-home, wearables, location-based services and app development. These panel discussions will allow for multiple points of view and audience participation about the ever-changing landscape of healthcare innovation.
