AUSTIN, TX, UNITED STATES, March 7, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Olympia Moving & Storage, a rapidly growing company headquartered in Boston, MA, added its fourth location by acquiring Austin-based American Relocation & Storage Systems on March 1st.

American Relocation, an interstate agent for Wheaton Van Lines, has been relocating families and businesses for nearly six decades. Olympia will offer Austin families local, interstate, and international moving services. The company also plans to expand their commercial division in Austin.

"We are really excited about this acquisition," says Michael Gilmartin, Founder & CEO of Olympia Moving & Storage. "There was already a great team in place, and with our investment and support, I am confident we can be successful in this market." Gilmartin believes, based upon the company's history, that Olympia will add 15-20 jobs in 2018.

Olympia is a leading provider of moving services in the Northeast and has tripled in size in the past 8 years. In 2017 the company completed 8,000 moves.

"Olympia keeps growing because we are committed to getting it right. There is no secret algorithm, it is all about understanding our customer's needs, being accountable, and holding ourselves to a higher standard. Our team understands this and it is reflected in our performance," says Gilmartin.

Olympia's success is based on a 25-year history and an impressive service record that includes an A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau and recognition as an Angie's List Super Service Award recipient. The company places a premium on hiring, training, and technology with the goal of providing the same high level of service across their entire footprint.

"Last year 95% of our customers said they would move with us again, the result of really listening to our clients and focusing on every detail. This is a great reflection of what we are capable of," says Gilmartin. "My goal is to redefine the moving industry, and I am looking forward to showing Austin that there's a better way to move."
