

ELEVATOR BREWING COMPANY RELEASES NEW BEER AND PACKAGING

New releases Uptown Pilsner and Gravity 3.0 are set to launch March, 24 2018.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, UNITED STATES, March 13, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Columbus, Ohio, March 13, 2018: In the next step of their exciting makeover, Elevator Brewing Co. in Downtown Columbus is releasing a new year-round edition to their line-up. Uptown Pilsner, available on tap and in six-packs, is a pre-prohibition pilsner, a style created by German immigrants who were trying to replicate their favorite style of beer using ingredients native to their new home. With the release of Uptown Pilsner, Elevator is debuting a new look for their packaging designed by local artist Thom Glick.

The brewery will celebrate the release of Uptown Pilsner with a party at the production brewery and 13th Floor Taproom, located at 165 N. 4th St. on Saturday, March 21st beginning at 12 p.m. In addition to Uptown Pilsner, Elevator will also release the third beer in their award-winning Gravity series! Gravity 3.0 is a German-style Doppelbock, weighing in at 11% ABV. Also on tap will be Brett's Brown (a nut brown ale fermented with brettanomyces) and a maple barrel-aged version of their popular Mocha Plum Stout. Food will be available on site from the legendary Schmidt's Sausage Haus and Restaurant.

Additional release parties for Uptown Pilsner are also planned throughout the state of Ohio. For more information about those, check our website www.elevatorbrewing.com.

In a city with new craft breweries emerging frequently, Elevator Brewing Co. has been an established player in Columbus for the last 18 years. The much-decorated Elevator Brewing Company started in 1999 in a grain elevator in Marysville, Ohio.
